Food Logistics Announces MTC Logistics as a 2012 Top Green Providers

BALTIMORE, MD – June 15, 2012 -- Food Logistics, a leading publication dedicated exclusively to the food and beverage supply chain, this week announced MTC Logistics was chosen as a Top Green Providers for 2012.

“The response to our Top Green Providers list this year was overwhelming. Despite a difficult business climate, the companies on this year’s list have proven that making a commitment to sustainability in their operations not only delivers a measurable return on investment, but gives them a competitive advantage in the marketplace and in the eyes of their customers,” explained Lara L. Sowinski, editor-in-chief at Food Logistics. “Sustainability in the supply chain continues to evolve as more companies recognize the necessity for environmental conservation, while new technologies are making it easier to adopt and quantify sustainable practices.”

Adding to an existing track record of environmentally sustainable operations, MTC Logistics recently completed one of the largest roof mounted solar installations in Maryland, located at the company’s Port of Baltimore refrigerated distribution center. “Powering our Baltimore facility with solar energy, thus reducing our carbon footprint, is something we’ve had in mind since the day we purchased this site in 2008,” said Harry Halpert, President of MTC Logistics. “Our intention from the outset was to make this facility one of the most environmentally friendly distribution centers in the nation.” Halpert added, “This system will also provide a partial hedge against volatile electric prices and fits very well with the other energy curtailment initiatives employed by our company.”
